

	REVOCABLE LIVING TRUST	MARITAL TRUST ("A" TRUST)	BYPASS TRUST ("B" TRUST)	SPOUSAL LIFETIME ACCESS TRUST (SLAT)	QUALIFIED TERMINABLE INTEREST PROPERTY TRUST (QTIP)
DESCRIPTION	This trust is primarily used for avoiding probate and keeping one's financial affairs private.	This trust is primarily used for taking advantage of the unlimited marital deduction and allowing assets to pass to a surviving spouse without triggering any immediate estate tax issues.	This trust is primarily used for removing assets from the first spouse's estate (i.e., using up their own exemption amount) to ensure that they are not included in the taxable estate of the second spouse.	This trust is primarily used for removing assets from one spouse's estate (for avoidance of estate taxes) while still giving their beneficiary spouse access to the trust for financial support while they are still alive.	This trust is primarily used in blended families (e.g., multiple children, 2nd marriages, etc.) to ensure the grantor can still financially support their spouse without disrupting their ultimate plans for passing on the assets.

	GRANTOR RETAINED TRUST (GRT - GRAT OR GRUT)	INTENTIONALLY DEFECTIVE GRANTOR TRUST (IDGT)	IRREVOCABLE LIFE INSURANCE TRUST (ILIT)	SPECIAL NEEDS TRUST (SNT)	QUALIFIED DOMESTIC TRUST (QDOT)
DESCRIPTION	This trust is primarily used for removing assets from the grantor's estate (for avoidance of estate taxes) while still providing an income stream to the grantor while they are still alive.	This trust is primarily used for removing assets from the grantor's estate (for avoidance of estate taxes) while still allowing the trust to retain income (no distributions required) and allowing the grantor to pay the taxes at their own tax rates.	This trust is primarily used for removing a life insurance death benefit from the grantor's estate for purposes of avoiding estate taxes and providing immediate liquidity to the beneficiaries.	This trust is primarily used for holding and managing assets for a beneficiary with disabilities in a way that preserves eligibility for means-tested public benefits (like SSI and Medicaid) while still allowing trust funds to supplement the beneficiary's quality of life.	This trust is primarily used for taking advantage of the unlimited marital deduction and allowing assets to pass to a non-US citizen surviving spouse without triggering any immediate estate tax issues.
